IM MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Aurelious A. Baldwin, who passed away April 12, 1947.

31 long years had passed
Since you went away,
And I know there isn't another
Who can fill your place today.
I have missed you, oh so often.
And have thought of you each day.
In my heart the memory lingers
Of the day you passed away.
I loved you, yes I loved you.
But Jesus loved you best and
He called you to His shining shore to rest.
Sadly missed by Daughter. 4-13-1tp

Va. Highway Fatalities Climb

RICHMOND. Despite an encouraging start, Virginia's highway fatalities have climbed to such an extent in March that 1978 first-quarter statistics indicate only four fewer deaths than recorded during the same period of 1977.

Preliminary statistics indicate 185 persons, including 39 pedestrians, have lost their lives on Virginia's highways since January 1 compared to a total of 189 for the first three months of 1977. Pedestrian deaths for this period last year were 32.

Through February this year, two-month totals showed 99 killed on the state's road - the lowest two-month figure on record since 1961 when 96 persons lost their lives. To find the next lowest two-month total, the records had to be turned back to 1948 when 67 deaths were recorded.

Former Governor Mills B. Godwin's "Highway Crash Alert" program during the months of November and December, 1977, may have contributed to the relatively low number of highway fatalities in the first two months of this year.

Governor Godwin was alarmed, as were many other officials, about the sudden rise in traffic deaths which appeared certain to wipe out the state's unprecedented four-year trend of reduced fatalities. At year's end, 1145 deaths were recorded, the highest total since 1973 when 1220 persons were killed.

However, last year's "Crash Alert" may have had some delayed benefit for the early months of this year. The program consisted of many parts - television film clips, radio safety messages, news-paper articles and editorials - all geared to appeal to motorists to drive safety.

Another vital part of the program was the increased visibility of State Troopers, who began working two hours overtime during critical driving periods.
